

ABSTRACT

This invention is a brush form optical coupler having a multiplicity of freely extending fiber end portions, sized and positioned to make optical contact with a subject, examination, and monitoring systems utilizing one or more of such couplers.